Stephen Agyei began his comedy career in his hometown of Denver, CO and quickly became one of the city's most sought-after comedians; becoming a headliner at the world-famous Comedy Works, the host of Film on The Rocks at the legendary Red Rocks Amphitheater, and being hand-picked to open for some of the most prominent comedians in the country. While climbing to the top of the Denver scene, the child of Ghanaian immigrants double majored in Communication and Sociology at the University of Colorado-Boulder and ran Division 1 track as a scholarship athlete. In addition to headlining clubs and colleges nationwide, Stephen served as an ambassador of Denver comedy at national Festivals including Riot L.A. Comedy Festival, Bridgetown Comedy Festival, Limestone Comedy Festival and High Plains Comedy Festival, to name a few. After appearing on Viceland's Flophouse, and NPR's All Things Considered, Stephen Moved to Los Angeles where he booked roles on Bojack Horseman and Just For Laughs Digital from his live performances. You may know his face from his National commercial work Realtor.com, and his commercial for Remi Martin(Directed by Jake Nava), and Voiceover on Cartoon Network's Tig-N-Seek.
